Research Funding History

Awarded [n=2]

2023/6 - 2027/6 Co-applicant	European Network On Lexical Innovation (ENEOLI), Grant Project Description: The key challenges addressed by our research network may be summarised thus: 1) Define the core terminology of neology through the creation of a born-digital specialised multilingual glossary (none exist currently) to facilitate research on an international scale; 2) Adapt digital methodologies and tools to identify and account for lexical innovation; 3) Carry out comparative studies on lexical innovation in European languages, with a particular focus on borrowings and their equivalents; 4) Provide specific training in neology for translators, editors, journalists, technical writers and teachers through a specific protocol that could be replicated for any European language. Conferences, training schools and short-term scientific missions are also planned in order to achieve the aforementioned goals.
---------------------------------	---

Course Development

Advisor, Université Laval
Course Title: FRN-1110
Course Level: Undergraduate
At the behest of the professor (Bruno Courbon) who normally teaches FRN-1110 (Lexicologie), presented recommendations to integrate corpus linguistic techniques and practices into FRN-1110 to a Committee overseeing the content updating of the BA in Linguistics at Université Laval in 2024
Co-developers: Courbon, Bruno; Lemire, Anthony

Editorial Activities

2024/3 - 2024/9
Editor-in-chief, Actes de colloque des 37e Journées de Linguistique, Journal Served as editor-in-chief for the proceedings of an international student conference (37th JDL). Responsible for overhaul and editorial oversight of all aspects of a custom publication pipeline, including editorial screening, preparing editorial reviews, recruitment and selection of reviewers, coordination and mentoring of two junior editors (MA students), and publishing of 10 French-language student conference papers (3k-4k words) in the journal Langues et Linguistique. Total duration of proceedings publication project: 7 months, from first call in March 2024 to publication of papers in September 2024. Notable accomplishment: First graduate student editor-in-chief of the JDL to publish JDL conference proceedings within a reasonable timeframe (i.e. less than 2 years) since the 26th JDL held in 2012 (published 2013).

Journal Review Activities

2023/4
Peer Reviewer, Langues et linguistique, Université Laval
Number of Works Reviewed / Refereed: 1

Conference Review Activities

- 2022/1 - 2022/1 Abstract reviewer, Journées de Linguistique (international student conference), Double Blind, Université Laval
Number of Works Reviewed / Refereed: 4
- 2021/1 - 2021/1 Abstract reviewer, Journées de Linguistique (international student conference), Double Blind, Université Laval
Number of Works Reviewed / Refereed: 2

Community and Volunteer Activities

- 2023/10 - 2024/3 Conference Organizer, Journées de Linguistique
 • Helped organize an annual international student conference (20 student presentations, 3 keynote speakers)
 • Continued to monitor two innovative projects I had instigated the preceeding year : (a) impact of abstract preparation guidelines on quality of student conference submissions (b) validity of evaluation rubrics designed for student peer review
 • Initiated the first filmic documentation of student presentations in the conference's 37-year history
 • Responsible for acquisition and editing of audio-visual material (9/20 presentations documented), which were then published on conference's official YouTube channel
- 2022/10 - 2023/3 Conference Organizer, Journées de Linguistique
 • Helped organize an annual international student conference (35 presentations, 3 keynote speakers);
 • Led development of official abstract preparation guidelines which helped students reduce informational and structural difficulties in their abstracts by over 50% compared to previous years (2011-2022)
 • Led development of more objective, more statistically-reliable, more user-friendly abstract evaluation rubrics

Other Memberships

- 2020/2 Student member, The International Society For The Linguistics of English
